this is kinda scary

What is that

You suing?

yeah was approached by a DC-based law firm. class action suit representing all BLK employees who participated in their

BLK employees who participated in their retirement plans. argument is that the funds we were given options of investing in were 90%+ BLK-managed plans with "multiple layers of fees" (think LifePath)

I'm just YOLOing this

Nice

Can I participate

well you're already in the class but I'll let the lawyer know you're interested class covers any and all participants in the BLK which I'm still in, no thanks to a certain someone who just loves dragging out my other legal situation

"BlackRock funds also underperformed comparative funds despite high fees. For example, despite charging a 500% - 871% premium, BlackRock's Low Duration Bond Fund has underperformed Vanguard's alternative over ten, five, three, and one year horizons." lol
